

MEASURING NORTH CAROLINA'S WORKFORCE DEVELOPMENT SYSTEM

North Carolina's Workforce Development System Programs

Agency	2013-2014 Cohort Participants	Percent of Cohort	Workforce Program
Dept. of Commerce	412,125	41.6%	Wagner-Peyser Workforce Investment Act – Adults Workforce Investment Act – Dislocated Workers Workforce Investment Act – Youth Apprenticeship Veteran's Employment
Dept. of Health and Human Services	76,478	7.7%	Services for the Blind, Employment and Training Work First, Employment and Training Vocational Rehabilitation, Employment and Training
Dept. of Public Instruction	88,261	8.9%	Career and Technical Education
Community College System	542,704	54.8%	Basic Skills Customized Training Human Resources Development Small Business Center Network Workforce Continuing Education Postsecondary Career, Technical, and Vocational Education

NCWorks Commission

As required by General Statute, the NCWorks Commission reports annually on system-wide performance measures to assess the effectiveness of the entire workforce development system. Using common metrics across the system, the performance measures offer a comprehensive program-by-program look at the workforce system.

The 2017 report tracks wage and employment trends for the base year cohort 2009-2010 and the 2010-2011 cohort. Individuals participated in workforce development programs in four state agencies. Some workforce development participants received only one service from one program, while others may have received multiple services from several agencies. Dual enrollments in a variety of programs often ensures that the individual is benefitting from the different types of activities. For example, an individual may go to a local workforce office (also called Career Centers) of the Department of Commerce for career counseling and help searching for employment, while attending a training program through the community college.

For more information, see the 2017 Annual Workforce Development System Performance Report. For further inquiries, contact NCWorks Commission staff, Annie Izod at annie.izod@nccommerce.com or 919-814-0313.

